

Finnish national football team's physio likes the LymphaTouch's quick effectiveness

Paavo Leiramo is an entrepreneur and a physiotherapist who has worked for almost 30 years with athletes. He has helped athletes such as football and ice hockey players with the recovery after training and treatment of their sports injuries. At the moment he only works with the Finnish national A team football players. Leiramo's company has LymphaTouch device that they use to treat different kinds of swellings that athletes may have. These are e.g. related to cuts or ligament injuries. They have gained good results with the treatment of even difficult cases. Paavo Leiramo thinks the lightweight and small LymphaTouch device is easy to take with you to sports facilities. The athletes on the other hand like the fast effectiveness that the device offers. "With the LymphaTouch I can start the treatment even at the acute phase after an injury. It also gives the physiotherapist more opportunities for treatment just before or just after a training session ", Paavo Leiramo concludes.
